Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I am in receipt of your letter dated January 10, 1993. Sorry for having taken so long to respond but I was away most of the month of January.

I find that I am still having to explain the situation with Livingstone. A fellow researcher in California heard that I was working with him, but I set her straight.

At the moment I am co-authoring an article on the new legislation. It will be submitted to the states' bar journals and law journals. It should be completed this week and I will send you a copy at that time.

I have been amassing a collection of materials on Lane and intend to begin writing the article within a month or so. I hope to have it published somewhere by the Fall. At some time I will try to visit and look through your files. You are correct about the pictures. I have no intention of discussing them in the article except maybe to say he was under tight FBI surveillance. I would, however, like to talk to the FBI agents, the reporters who saw the pictures and Shaw's attorney. Can you give me their names?

Unfortunately, I am still looking for another job. The government has dried up completely at the moment, both state and federal. I will be teaching a college course on the assassination beginning next week. I have enclosed a copy of the syllabus.

Not much else happening. I have some interesting FOIAs pending, including: inter-agency committee on defectors, legal travelers program, Otto Otepka's files, Win Scott's manuscript, Guy Bannister and several of the American defectors. By the way, how is your manuscript on JAMA proceeding?

I trust all is well with you and Lil. Let us hope that Spring is on its way. I look forward to hearing from you. With best wishes, I am,

Sincerely,

Mark
